Question 12: Effect of IRS Involvement on Support for Law

Under the new health care law, the Internal Revenue Service is responsible for enforcing the mandate to carry health insurance, fining people who don't carry insurance, and determining eligibility for subsidies. Does knowing the IRS' role in the health care law make you more likely to support the law, less likely to support the law, or does it have no effect on your support of the law? IF LESS LIKELY, ASK: Would that be much less likely or just somewhat less likely?

Question 12: Effect of IRS Involvement on Support for Law

Under the new health care law, the Internal Revenue Service is responsible for enforcing the mandate to carry health insurance, fining people who don't carry insurance, and determining eligibility for subsidies. Does knowing the IRS' role in the health care law make you more likely to support the law, less likely to support the law, or does it have no effect on your support of the law? IF LESS LIKELY, ASK: Would that be much less likely or just somewhat less likely?

Question 14: Health Care Law Effect on Job Creation

Which of the following comes closest to your view about how the health care law passed in 2010 will affect job creation in this country:
 (ROTATE) a. The health care law will help job creation, because companies can hire more workers knowing that there is subsidized health care available, and workers can keep their coverage if they change jobs. OR b. The health care law will hurt job creation, because the mandate to provide coverage or pay fines for all companies with 50 or more full-time employees will make companies delay hiring decisions or cut the hours for workers in order to avoid this new cost.

Question 14: Health Care Law Effect on Job Creation

Which of the following comes closest to your view about how the health care law passed in 2010 will affect job creation in this country: (ROTATE) a. The health care law will help job creation, because companies can hire more workers knowing that there is subsidized health care available, and workers can keep their coverage if they change jobs. OR b. The health care law will hurt job creation, because the mandate to provide coverage or pay fines for all companies with 50 or more full-time employees will make companies delay hiring decisions or cut the hours for workers in order to avoid this new cost.

Question 15: Likelihood of Outcome: Cost Increase for Younger People

As you may know, the health care reform law states that older or sicker people cannot be charged more than three times the amount of insurance premiums that younger, healthier people pay. How likely do you think each of the following outcomes are as a result of that rule: very likely, somewhat likely, or not too likely?

Health insurance costs for younger people will increase to make up for the limits on older people.

Question 17: Likelihood of Outcome: Higher Premiums for Healthy People

As you may know, the health care reform law states that older or sicker people cannot be charged more than three times the amount of insurance premiums that younger, healthier people pay. How likely do you think each of the following outcomes are as a result of that rule: very likely, somewhat likely, or not too likely?

The provision will not reduce premiums for people with chronic illnesses, but instead will lead to higher premiums for healthy people.

Question 35b: Concern About Outcome: People Will Be Forced Into Medicaid

Now I would like to read you a list of possible outcomes when the health care reform law passed in 2010 is implemented next year. For each of the following, please tell me if that outcome concerns you a great deal, somewhat, not too much, or not at all:

As health insurance becomes more expensive employers will choose to pay a penalty instead of providing private insurance, and people will be forced into Medicaid coverage.

Question 41: Concern About Criticism: Premium Increases for Men

Now I would like to read you a list of criticisms that people have made regarding the health care reform law passed in 2010. For each of the following, please tell me if that criticism concerns you a great deal, somewhat, not too much, or not at all:

Premiums are expected to increase especially for men because the health care law prohibits charging men and women different rates, with the rates for young, healthy men nearly tripling.

Question NS5: Balanced Budget Amendment Good/Bad Idea

Which of the following statements comes closer to your view (ROTATE): a) A balanced budget amendment to the U.S. Constitution is a good idea. That is the only way the federal government will restore fiscal responsibility and stop spending money we don't have. b) A balanced budget amendment to the U.S. Constitution is a bad idea. The federal budget is not like a family budget, and the government needs flexibility to respond to economic needs and emergencies.
